1997-2009

10.0 cm of textual records, 42 audio cassettes,

Administrative History: The Sudbury History of Nursing Group was formed in 1997. They had a first meeting on November 27, of that year. The initial group of five retired nurses and two Laurentian University Faculty members, was affiliated with the Margaret M. Allemang Centre for the History of Nursing. They felt the need to take actions to ensure the preservation of the history of nursing in Northern Ontario. After consideration, they opted to collect oral testimonies of nurses who worked in Northern Ontario. They had training sessions in oral history, and developed all of the material needed to properly conduct the project of Oral History of nursing in Northern Ontario (Consent Forms, Biographical Profile forms and Interview Questionnaire). And then, the group started the interview process. By the end of 2007, they had interviewed 41 retired nurses, 1 secretary and 2 families had filled posthumous Biographical Profiles of nurses who had graduated between 1910-1973. The same year they began the lengthy process of editing and transcribing all interviews. The project was finalised in 2009.

The group is still active. Most of their activities are now toward the promotion of the importance of preserving the history of nursing. They participate to different symposiums, exhibits in doing presentations and also distributing the material they developed for conducting oral history projects.

The group received financial support from the Margaret M. Allemang Centre for the History of Nursing, and they also raised almost half of the amount to cover the cost of the project.

After Linda Ambrose, Ph.D. of the History Department (LaurentianU.) and Margaret Kechnie, Ph.D. of the Women Studies Program (Thorneloe U) left the group, two new members joined the group. The 'members' were: Joyce MacQueen (chair), Margaret Borley, Lynda Edman, Myrtle Kutschke, Sister Marie McGirr, Morna Rupert and Marion Tait.

Scope and Content: The Sudbury History of Nursing Group fonds attests not only of all the group's activities involved in developing and conducting their oral history project but moreover it conveys an important part of the history nursing. Indeed, the fonds contains records documenting the management of such a project, such as: the history of the project, its goals and objectives, as well as all forms developed by the group to meet all requirements in conducting such a project. Moreover, it contains the original tape recordings of the 42 interviews of the retired nurses and their transcriptions, and some printed images of nurses interviewed and graduating classes. There is also a biographical profile of each nurse interviewed. They graduated from different Schools in Ontario, British Columbia, and Québec. Some of the nurses graduated in England, Ireland and the United States. All worked in Northern Ontario. The interview addresses not only different aspects of their work but also the context of their training and education as well as their family life.

The fonds is divided in 2 series: series A: Project management; Series B: Interviews
